FREE Rent Guarantee

If, within six months of the start of the tenancy, the tenant fails to pay the monthly rent, the insurers will pay:

- The rent due (monthly in arrears), for a maximum four months or until vacant possession has been obtained.
- All of the Landlord's legal costs incurred in obtaining vacant possession as a result of non payment.

Provided that:

- An Assured Shorthold Tenancy agreement is signed.
- The insurers receive a claim form within 21 days of the rent falling due.
- The insurers shall not be liable for more than four months' rent arrears.

This guarantee is arranged by Taylor's Residential Lettings and is provided by a specialist broker. Taylor's Residential Lettings do not accept liability for settlement of claims.

Please note that the first month's rent arrears is not covered by the guarantee (an excess equivalent to one month's rent applies). Legal costs associated with non-arrears related disputes are not covered. If cover is required to this extent, please contact Taylor's Residential Lettings for details of additional protection.

On expiry, the Rent Guarantee can be extended, provided that the tenant is not in arrears or in dispute. Please ask for the rates applicable to this extension, as they vary from time to time.
